

The Opportunity

OliveTree School in Ft. Collins, Colorado offers the opportunity for you to partner with us in providing a quality program for homeschool families who seek educational enrichment and core programs with a Biblical worldview.

The Challenge

In these hard economic times, OliveTree and its families are challenged with increasing financial burdens.

A Response

If you are blessed with financial resources that allow you to bless others (beyond your regular tithe to your church home),
Or

If your tax burden would be decreased by a charitable gift,

We ask you to prayerfully consider giving a charitable donation to OliveTree.

What are the benefits of charitable giving to OliveTree School?

- You are supporting a local homeschooling organization committed to honoring God by providing excellence in education for your children or grandchildren.
- Your contribution is tax deductible because OliveTree is a 501(C) 3 organization, which provides you the option of supporting this ministry with your year- end giving rather than paying more in taxes.
- You are able to help OliveTree keep the tuition expenses more affordable for all local homeschooling families, including those who might otherwise not be able to afford Olive Tree for their children.
- You are giving to an organization which faithfully prays and seeks the Lord's guidance regarding spending every cent in a fiscally responsible manner.
- You are able to have a potentially eternal impact on the lives of children being raised to make a positive difference in this world.

History

Most home-schooling families eventually recognize the need for assistance in the endeavor to teach their children. Not since the one-room school teacher has there been the expectation of having one individual (usually mom) who is an expert in every subject at every age level. The challenge is simple: the need for home-school assistance, known popularly as an 'Enrichment Program.'

Unfortunately, few options are available to the home-schooling family in need of enrichment. We can always do without. But is that best for our children? We can enroll in a private Christian school. But sometimes these are cost prohibitive. There certainly is the public school enrichment option. But then we are immediately reminded of the very reason most of us are home-schooling – the worldview of the teachers and the curriculum, the anti-Christian bias, etc.

With these concerns in mind we began to dream of another option: A low-cost alternative led by Christian parents designed to enhance the home-school education by providing various classes for home-school students. After much prayer and discussion, OliveTree was born.

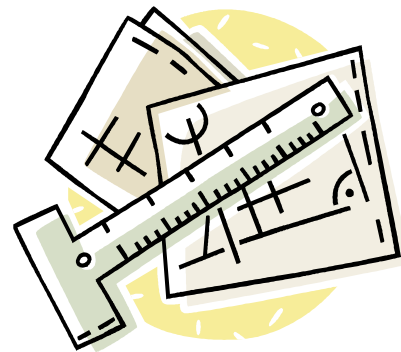

We thank God for His provision for this ministry which has served families since 2003.
